

Getting in the Light

Hello my name is Stella I live with my Mum, Dad and my brother. One day me and my brother were playing out in the bright, sunny weather when my mother called me in and told me about electricity. It could change so many things in my life. At the time we couldn't afford our washing machine, I decided to do some work down in the village. I cleaned filthy kitchens! I mopped until my hands were raw. I saved enough to help buy my washing machine. When my dad walked in with our washing machine my eyes lit up with joy. I had never seen anything like it. I was gob smacked.

It was a dull cream colour.

Since electricity came

I am so happy I no longer do my homework under the faint candle.
