

Helen Keller

Helen Keller was deaf and blind for most of her life and best known for her writing and an activist. She born on June 27th 1880 in the U.S. Her characteristics were being a inquisitive, pacifist and suffragist. When she was young, she went to a special blind school and her teacher, Anne Sullivan tried to teach her how to speak by putting water on her hand and spelling out the word. When she was older, she was fighting for everyone's rights and saying speeches. She died in 1968.

The best and most beautiful thing in the world cannot be seen or even touched. The greatest gift is love. I must be felt with the heart.
