

MARY JANE PATTERSON.

Ruby Hudson

Mary Jane Patterson was a black woman.
She specialised in Science and math.

When she was about fourteen or fifteen (around ten-twenty.) she decided she needed a change she was pretty tired of being told what to do and being practically organised by other beings.

She attended a high school a bit later.

In school she trained extra hard to work, study and to stand out in life. She soon was principal of the school and still, she was working very hard. She attended meetings with world leaders, talking about black woman's rights and how the world can make it happen. A few years later she earned a B.A for her courage and her strength dedicated to black rights.

B.A = (bachelors degree/award.) She then continued as a principal for high school.

MARY JANE PATTERSON then died on September twenty fourth 1894. But her strong forceful personality continued to inspire people all around the world. as well as her TREMENDOUS power for good in establishing large intelligence. MARY JANE PATTERSON - BY Ruby. Rose Hudson
